

WEBSITE POSTING

ANALYST

Based in Silicon Valley, Light Street Capital manages approximately $2.6 billion across two global public equities strategies and a late stage growth strategy focused on the technology and media sectors. Light Street conducts rigorous fundamental analysis on companies to identify investment opportunities where technologies, products, and/or business models are undergoing change and innovation.

Duties: Analyst at Light Street Capital's office in San Francisco, California will serve as a critical member of its Investment Team. Responsibilities include: Researching technology companies in Asia to identify investment opportunities and inform investment decisions; Following industry trends and developing a strong network for information gathering; Working with our proprietary research team to source and develop supporting data; Formulating investment theses and ideas in public and private company markets; Working with senior Analysts to develop financial models that support investment theses; Critically analyzing all investment ideas and participating in team discussions; and Travelling to investor conferences and company meetings in China, Hong Kong, Singapore, Indonesia, and other countries in Asia at least 25% of the time (for a total of more than 13 weeks and up to 26 weeks per year).

Analyst will report directly to Light Street Capital's Partner, Asia ex-Japan, who in turn reports to the Chief Investment Officer.

Must have: Minimum of Bachelor's Degree in Finance, Economics, or Business Administration with a concentration in Finance (or its foreign equivalent), plus 5 years of relevant work experience as an Analyst or similar position with a private equity fund or investment bank. Must also have (or experience must include): Experience with Technology, Media and Telecommunications (TMT) investing; Experience with both public and private company analysis and investing; Experience working as a contributing member of an investment team; Experience conducting diligence with senior executives and management teams of public and private companies; Experience preparing detailed investment diligence materials to investment committee; Experience conducting consumer / professional surveys to help inform investment decisions; Strong understanding of fundamental analysis of companies, sector, and valuation techniques to relay and update investment thesis; Accounting proficiency to understand, interpret and analyze financial statements and to create baseline inputs for financial models; Advanced Excel skills, including creation of pivot tables, to build and maintain complex, multi-variable financial models capable of forecasting company financial performance based on publicly available data and analyst input; Experience with regression analysis and time-series analysis techniques; Demonstrated broad professional network in venture capital, public equity and private market investing; Excellent analytical and quantitative skills; Strong written and verbal communications skills; and Willingness and ability to conduct limited international travel to investor conferences and company meetings in China, Hong Kong, Singapore, Indonesia, and other countries in Asia at least 25% of the time (for a total of more than 13 weeks and up to 26 weeks per year).

Full-time. Position is located at 101 California Street, Suite 4650, San Francisco, CA 94111. To apply, please send resume and cover letter to recruiting@lightstreet.com; no phone calls.